Handwritten text in a script, likely Indic, on a palm leaf manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines. The script is finely etched into the surface of the leaf. There is a prominent dark, irregular hole or tear in the leaf, located roughly in the middle of the page, between the third and fifth lines of text. The leaf itself is aged and has a slightly uneven, yellowish-brown color.

[Faint handwritten notes in Devanagari script, likely bleed-through from the reverse side.]

Handwritten text in a script, possibly Indic, on the right side of the manuscript fragment.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or letter. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is arranged in several lines. There are two prominent dark, circular marks (possibly holes or ink stains) on the left side of the page. The script is dense and difficult to decipher, but appears to be a form of historical shorthand or a specific dialect.
